A Message From The Minister

Dear Friends,

Forgive me for beginning with a cliché, but confession really is good for the soul. In fact, it's not just healthy but essential. Having done all the practical things which need doing in order to restore Israel to its former position (bringing the people back, rebuilding the wall etc), Nehemiah begins the really important work: getting those people right with God. This is where the rubber really hits the road. The Israelites assemble, with all the classic outward signs of repentance – sackcloth, ashes, the whole lot. They are serious about this. They realise that it would be pointless to reassemble as God's people, even with all the outward signs of godliness, without reorienting their hearts towards their creator. So they confess. Confession has two meanings and both are in play here. Confession means owning up to our shortcomings and sins, and it also means proclaiming the faith out loud. The great prayer of confession in Nehemiah 9 begins with the ringing declaration, "May people worship your glorious Name, though exalted above all worship and praise. You are God, you alone....". They recount God's creation of the world, His saving acts throughout history, before culminating in a plea for forgiveness, all underpinned by an assurance that, as God has been faithful to His people in the past, so He will continue to be as they begin this new chapter.

Confession (in the sense of confessing your sins) isn't fashionable just now. We tend to think that, whilst not perfect, we are fundamentally ok as we are. We might be thoroughly good people in our own estimation, but it takes more than that to stand in the utterly holy presence of God. We need to be comprehensively washed clean, and this only the blood of Christ can achieve. When we confess, we bring yet more of our life under the Lordship of Christ, we bring something more to be washed clean. Christian confession is, therefore, profoundly hopeful. We are encouraged to bring our brokenness before God, not so we can be condemned, humiliated, ground into the dust, but so that we can be delivered from the stranglehold of our failings, making room for God's grace to grow on our lives. Confession in the sense of proclaiming God's goodness is equally important. It reminds us just how much we have to be thankful for, and builds our consciousness of God's presence in our lives. This is how we walk with God day by day: by bringing the whole of our lives to Him, even (perhaps especially) the bad bits, and by consciously bringing to mind His goodness and His readiness to forgive. The Israelites weren't satisfied with being back in their homeland with their shiny new wall. The practicalities over, they realise that the really vital work had to begin: that of rebuilding their relationship with God.

With every blessing
Ben Haslam

Saturday Morning Fellowship (10.30 am – 12.00 pm)

We'd like to start with a big 'thank you' to all of you who celebrated the wonderful continent of Africa with us on the 23rd July by decorating the hall, enjoying the music, putting on a fabulous fashion show and sharing delicious African food - what a colourful and fantastic morning we had! Over the past few months we have really enjoyed getting together for a chat with our coffee/tea & cake and having a fun & relaxing time every Saturday morning. We will continue to be 'open' throughout the summer holidays in August.

In September we are opening our doors up to anyone in the Wonford community and look forward to welcoming a few new people, alongside our regulars from church, so please do invite those you know to come along. Throughout the month we plan to have another popular quick quiz, a fundraising coffee morning in aid of Hospiscare and a morning of Art.

You are all welcome and it would be lovely to see you, either to be with us for the morning or even just pop in for a quick cuppa .

Green Team Article

What do you think about

a) Book of Things?

All of us already have an abundance of 'things' but occasionally we need a 'thing' we haven't got – perhaps a travel cot for a young visitor, a tool for a job in the home or garden, equipment for painting or a trolley for a large purchase.

Instead of buying new we could perhaps borrow from someone at Church?

We are thinking of putting together a book where people offer 'things' that they would be willing to lend to other Church folk.

So if you were planning a party you might look in the book to see if anyone has a gazebo that you could borrow, if you have visitors you might see if anyone has any air beds or if you're decorating you might look to see if anyone had a wallpapering table.

If someone was offering what you wanted you would get in touch to arrange when and where to collect, possibly at Saturday Fellowship.

Also, maybe you would like to try out a piece of equipment before you buy it e.g. an exercise bike

b) Sharing our Skills?

We have an abundance of skills within our Church and it would be wonderful to find more ways to share these with each other and potentially with the wider community.

We could have workshops as part of Saturday Fellowship – repairing items, advice on laptops and social media, help filling in forms/putting together a CV or learning how to knit, play guitar, speak Spanish.....

Or maybe one-off help perhaps from a working party to clear a bramble patch, decorate a room or perhaps a tip run (particularly for those of us without cars!)

Perhaps someone needs help with dog walking and someone else can't have a pet themselves but would love to take a dog for a walk

These ideas need to be explored further (particularly with regard to Safeguarding and Confidentiality) but if they happen in some form they would encourage connections, strengthen relationships and show faith in action.

If you like these ideas or have any comments/suggestions please chat to one of the Green Team or email Helen helenbigwood@hotmail.com or Liz lizsimonetti3@gmail.com

Statement on the Current Political Crisis in Sri Lanka

With the events in Sri Lanka this week, the Methodist Church in Britain has received two statements from Revd W. P. Ebenezer Joseph, President of Conference, Methodist Church, Sri Lanka and Chair of the National Christian Council of Sri Lanka.

Graham Thompson, President of the Methodist Conference, has offered this statement and prayer of support and solidarity in response:

In the past week we have witnessed the unravelling of the economic and political situation in Sri Lanka. The crisis is having a huge impact on the availability of food, fuel and medicine, causing great suffering for the Sri Lankan people. In response to the statements from our partners the Methodist Church, Sri Lanka and the National Christian Council of Sri Lanka (NCCSL), we join with their calls for a peaceful and swift resolution to the crisis.

The Methodist Church in Britain greatly values the partnership of the Methodist Church in Sri Lanka and the NCCSL, and their work in responding to this crisis. We stand in solidarity with them and support their calls for action to bring stability and pave the way for democratic elections. We share with them in the appeal for non-violent and peaceful activity, both on the part of protesters and the authorities in dealing with them.

We join in prayer using the prayer points received from Revd. W. P. Ebenezer Joseph.

Almighty and loving God, we pray for Sri Lanka, its people and for our Methodist Church partners. We give thanks for the work of the Methodist Church in Sri Lanka as they reach out and support the most vulnerable at this time of threat and insecurity. We ask that you strengthen them in all that they do in your Name.

We pray for political stability, peace and for the early formation of an all-party government. We pray for the evolution of a new political culture that will serve all people. We pray for relief for the many thousands who are suffering due to the economic hardships and trust that your abiding presence will be a source of comfort and strength for all.

In the name of Christ, Amen.

The Revd Graham Thompson
President of the Methodist Conference

The Greatest Commandment

The President of the Conference 2022/2023, the Revd Graham Thompson, says our relationship with a loving God sustains and opens us to God's abiding Spirit.

I first became truly aware of the activity of the Holy Spirit when in my early 20s I attended a teaching weekend at Cliff College. Until then my understanding of the 'abiding presence of God' had been purely theoretical. That weekend, I discovered how the Holy Spirit can bless and inspire as I allowed God to be at work in a way that I had not allowed before. The experience has not been a 'one off' as, throughout my ministry, I have been fortunate to witness others experience the same openness and the same blessing. I like to think that John Wesley's experience at Aldersgate Street was the same as mine at Cliff College! And, while there are some resonances, there are many differences. Wesley was an ordained Anglican with a theology and understanding that, at this stage, had not been granted to me. Even so, the journey from the theoretical to the personal – from the head to the heart – was similar. And I am convinced that each disciple of Jesus needs to understand as much as they can about God's activity (head) and to experience as much as they can (heart). We need both to be truly the people that God created us to be.

Love your God with all your heart

The presidential theme for 2022/2023 is 'The Greatest Commandment' (Matthew 22:37-39). Vice-President Anthony Boateng and I are concentrating on different aspects of the theme as we believe the Church should be filled with those who love God, others and themselves. We also need a fresh wind of the Holy Spirit to restore, revive and reignite us. In fact, we believe that each is necessary for the other. We should love God and our neighbours as much as we love ourselves and, it is as we love like this, that we become ready for the new or fresh things that God wants to do in us and for us. To go a little deeper, our relationship with God should be continually evolving, maturing and deepening as we learn to live and minister together day by day. This happens when we love and trust each other. I am continually amazed that God is willing to trust me to be a servant of God and a presbyter in the Methodist Church. And I can only be the minister that I am called to be because my relationship with God sustains and enables me each day. A caveat, however, most relationships go through rocky patches and that has been my experience too!

Grounded in Love

A relationship with God, made possible through the life, death and resurrection of Jesus and made real by the abiding Spirit is on offer to us all. Such a relationship transforms lives and enables God's purposes to be fulfilled. The basis of such a relationship is love and when we struggle to get things right with God we need to go back to first principles and consider the love we have – or don't have – for God. We love God, says the writer of 1 John (4:19) because God first loved us. God reaches out to us in Jesus and blesses us with the Holy Spirit as we invite God to share all our living with us. Such love is the kind that, to quote from the old marriage service, "grows and deepens with the years" (Methodist Service Book p.186). It isn't a crush or a phase but results in the gift of oneself to the other; utterly and totally. We become open to God's Spirit when we are grounded in such a relationship. Throughout this year both Anthony and I want to encourage others to find hope and security in their relationship with God. In an ever-changing world (culturally, economically and post-pandemic) it is our relationships that sustain us. We may not always get things right; we will make mistakes but, together with God and one another, we can be the best versions of ourselves. At the same time, we should be ready for the fresh wind of God to blow through our Church. As we make ourselves open to God, we can expect new and exciting things to happen as we love God and one another and invite God to be at work in and through us.
